Construction of a 34-unit senior citizens housing project in Haliburton village is nearing completion. Ontario Housing Corporation is now interviewing applicants for admission. Work on the project, which began last May, is scheduled for completion in February.

OMB examines zoning bylaw

The Ontario Municipal Board began a hearing Monday into the comprehensive zoning bylaw of Stanhope township.

The hearing, which is expected to last three days, was called to hear objections from township ratepayers and the Ministry of Housing to the bylaw, which was passed by council in May, 1977.

The purpose of the bylaw is to regulate the use of land in the township.

Under the chairmanship of C.G. Ebers and A.B. Ball, the hearing heard testimony Monday from a consulting firm planner and a ministry planner.

W.J. Dolan of Tottem, Sims and Hubicki of Toronto, said the bylaw is required by the township to allow a level of protection from development.

Ministry planner P.G. Rimmington said the ministry is concerned about the possible conversion of seasonal residences to permanent and the subsequent effect on the municipal services in Stanhope.

"If seasonal residents were to convert to permanent dwellers," he explained, "it would have a significant effect on the municipality."

He said it would require more school bus routes and increased maintenance of the township's road system.

"A greater demand for high priority roads would result if more permanent residents were developed," he added.

Minden Red Cross society wants council to reconsider MD decision

The board of directors of the Minden branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society want Haliburton County council to reconsider its decision to retain a Haliburton village physician to care for the patients at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home at Minden.

In a letter to warden Keith Tallman, society president James Burton, wants council to return the care of the patients to the Minden doctors.

"The decision of the committee of management of the Hyland Crest Home not to accept the Minden doctors is quite incomprehensible and is clearly not in the patients' best interests," he said. "All the patients, except two, have requested that the Minden doctors should be the official doctors for the Hyland Crest Home."

"The committee of management do not seem to care at all for the patients' medical welfare or their wishes," he stated.

Burton said the society directors expressed great concern during a meeting earlier this month over the decision to leave the medical care of the Hyland Crest patients in Haliburton.

"At present," he stated, "there is a very long delay before a patient from the Hyland Crest Home can see the doctor in an emergency."

"In winter," he added, "the journey to Haliburton through snow and ice will be more difficult."

Some medical conditions require immediate medical attention, such as coronarys, strokes, bleeding ulcers, he said.

"The Minden doctors have offered an immediate 24-hour on-call service to deal with this type of emergency and are prepared to guarantee no delay," he stated in the letter.

New chamber president predicting a good year

The new president of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, John Hogg feels the next 12 months will be a "good year" in the county.

Hogg was selected as the president at a meeting of the board of directors last Wednesday. He replaces Dennis Casey.

The main objective of the chamber, he said, is to improve the economic conditions in the county.

"I am looking forward to an exciting and challenging year," he told The Echo in an interview.

He said the chamber will continue to promote tourism. The organization will also focus on attracting visitors to the area at the off-season times of the year, he explained.

Greater emphasis will be placed on the promotion of the business community, he said.

The chamber will work closely with the merchants to help improve their economic welfare.

Hogg, operator of Mr. Fogg's restaurant at Carnarvon, said a management committee of the chamber, consisting of the president, vice-president and past president, will meet in the near future to map out the exact plans of the organization for the next 12 months.

Bill Scott and national Conservative party president, Robert Coates, share a light moment at the PC nomination meeting last Saturday in Lindsay. Scott won the nomination uncontested.

DREE funds are unfairly distributed, says Victoria-Haliburton MP Bill Scott

Funds from the Department of Regional and Economic Expansion (DREE) have been unfairly distributed throughout Canada, claims Victoria-Haliburton member of parliament Bill Scott.

DREE was created several years ago to reduce regional disparity and help relieve the economic problems of different areas of the country, he told his supporters during his acceptance speech last Saturday at Lindsay, where he won the PC nomination for the riding uncontested.

A 13-year veteran of federal politics, he will carry the Conservative banner in the next federal election.

"DREE, however, has been applied on a selective basis and I, for one, have questioned the criteria used in selecting areas eligible for assistance," he said.

"Sometime ago I asked the minister responsible if he would consider extending the services of DREE to our area so that Victoria-Haliburton could also take advantage of a program designed to stimulate economic growth," he explained. Regrettably, he has been putting me off and, to date, has refused to extend the boundaries. Chambers of commerce as well as county and municipal officials have supported me in my efforts and I trust that even yet the minister will see fit to give our area serious consideration."

He said he wants to know why the prime minister's riding of Mount Royal in Montreal qualified for DREE grants, "but Victoria-Haliburton can't even get a fair hearing."

Conservative leader Joe Clark, he revealed, would award fund from DREE on a basis of economics rather than political criteria.

Scott told the gathering he was working with the Conservative party's DREE critic to examine ways of focusing DREE support on tourism and light industry.

He launched a verbal attack on Pierre Trudeau's

"permissive society" claiming the prime minister has failed to take measures designed to restore the respect for law and order lost during Trudeau's reign.

"As you know, I have consistently opposed abolition of capital punishment as I believe that this deterrent is needed to protect our police officers and the citizens of our society," he said.

"Many Liberals are changing their tune on capital punishment because they see an election in the near future and they know how the public feel about the Liberal government's stand against capital punishment," he added.

He explained his leader, although personally opposed to the death penalty, would allow a public referendum on the issue and abide by the decision of the voters.

With a concerted effort and the degree of dedication that Canadians have exhibited in the past, he said, citizens can avoid confrontation, violence, vandalism and the disregard for law and order.

"We can recover our lost

Voters express pro-Clark feeling Conservative president predicts

Voters in the recent federal by-elections expressed a pro-Joe Clark feeling rather than an anti-Trudeau mood when they gave the Progressive Conservatives 10 new seats in the House of Commons, revealed national Conservative party president Bob Coates.

He predicted the Conservatives will form the next federal government when he spoke at the nominating convention of Victoria-Haliburton member of parliament Bill Scott.

"It is a sign of the times when our party picks up popular support in by-elections," he told a gathering of 500 persons at the Lindsay Collegiate and Vocational Institute last Saturday.

"Joe Clark has attracted able people to our party," he said. "We're on the move because of people like you."

He stated Canadians are tired of the Liberal government in Ottawa. "I know we have a government in Ottawa which the people are fed up with," he added.

The federal government, he explained, is not a Liberal party anymore, "but a Trudeau party."

In the next federal election, which is likely to be held in the spring, the Liberal stronghold in Quebec, he said, will be equally challenged by the Conservative headlock on the western provinces.

He predicted the Conservatives will be able to attract candidates for the party in Quebec.

"A great upheaval is going on across this country of ours," he said.

A 20-year veteran of the House of Commons, Coates was first elected in 1957 as the member of Cumberland-Nova Scotia. He now represents the riding of Cumberland-Coalchester-North, which was created in 1968.

Halloween tale: Tricks or Treats

By Joe Banks Staff Writer

Dimly lit streets, glowing jack-o-lanterns in front windows and frosted leaves crackling under the foot - it's Halloween once again.

Children dressed in eerie, sometimes amusing costumes, roam the avenues of the town, looking for treats or for houses with nothing to satisfy the sweet tooth, tricks to play.

There is a crowd gathered around the porch of Mrs. Evans home. Goblins, witches, monsters of just about every shape, colour and size are listening to the old woman tell her tales of what has been known to happen in the town during the spooky night.

"A door will creak, and when you look to see who opened it, there will be no one there," she says quietly, "and, when you walk the dark streets going from house to house in search of your treats, perhaps a shadow will cross your path, or a cold wind will blow by you, and you will wonder what caused these things."

The children are silent, waiting to see what Mrs. Evans will say next. Suddenly, the old woman breaks out into laughter and smiles fondly at all her little guests gathered at her door.

"But don't be afraid, little ones. This is not a night to be afraid of, but a night to have fun, and a night of mystery, and of lots and lots of treats! Now, come in and get them like good little goblins should!"

The group moves into Mrs. Evans house. On a large, wooden board in the kitchen, sit sweet, glistening pieces of homemade candy wrapped delicately in cellophane paper. A tray of caramel apples sits on a shelf above the table, and beside the tray is a cutting board with a long, stretched out piece of Mrs. Evan's famous home-made toffee. It has just been freshly pulled and ready for cutting.

The masked guests are silent once again. With wonder, they eye the sweets Mrs. Evans has prepared for them. But first, popcorn will be popped downstairs in the Evans' huge fireplace. The children gleefully accept the invitation, and some are even anxious to take their masks off, but Mrs. Evans tells them not to.

"It is not good luck to take your masks off before midnight. We must wait until the witching hour!"

Some more spooky visitors have arrived and Mrs. Evans shows them downstairs where a large,

A Halloween tale: Tricks or Treats

roaring fire is blazing, sending off warmth to take the October chill out of the spooks' bones. Mr. Evans sits in the corner of the room reading the paper and without anyone's knowledge is remembering back to the days when he and his friends celebrated Hallowe'en.

Potato sacks had holes cut in the bottoms of them to use as pants and, come Hallowe'en, the sacks would be replaced with sugar or flour bags, which glistened white in the darkness. Sheets were pulled over the top part of the body and holes were cut out of the face for the eyes. A more scarier looking spook never existed.

And the tricks! Mr. Evans recalls when he and his friends travelled up to the old house, on the hill above the town, to discover if the old place was really haunted or not. No one ever went near the dark house, especially on Hallowe'en, so it had stayed deserted since its owners had long since died.

As it turned out, the house was just very dark, and no ghosts were floating around inside. But the light from the lanterns the boys were carrying gave off an unusual light, which flickered on the walls, and made their shadows seem as if they were 10 feet tall. As a result, the curious visitors did not stay in the house very long, but long enough for the people in the town to see that there was light coming from the house high up on the hill.

Rumours began, and that Hallowe'en night, everyone was convinced the ghost of old Jones was walking the floors of the house. When the boys made their way back into the town to carry on with their tricks and treats, they found that their little expedition had created a real mess in the town. A milk wagon had upset after the rider had jumped out of it when he had seen the lights, and the horse pulling the cart ran off in a panic. The animal ran right through the downtown area and hit several posts holding up store fronts and many canopies collapsed along with overhanging roofs. Barrells of pickles in front of the general store had been overturned, and, when a pedestrian had seen the horse madly running down the street, he had backed up and fell through the glass window of the barber shop. Fortunately, he wasn't hurt, and two days later they found the horse grazing peacefully in a field outside of the town.

Those were the good old days, recalls Mr. Evans.

But Hallowe'en has changed slightly in the old town now, and the monsters, goblins, witches and who knows what else have increased, and the Evans' basement is becoming a little more crowded each year. So after the popcorn had popped, and the goodies have been gathered, the children are off again to more houses, more tricks and more treats.

And after the night is over, and the witching hour has passed, and all the masks are off, Mr. and Mrs. Evans will pop their own popcorn quietly in front of the fire.

There will be more stories next year, and more treats, but they'll also always remember the joy that past Hallowe'ens have brought them.

Because that, the Evans will tell you, is what the spooky night is all about.

initiative, regain our spirit and rekindle our tradition of greatness," Scott told his party supporters.

"I invite you to join me in the crusade to restore our country to the greatness of our forefathers and to the challenge to fulfill our obligation to the countless generations yet unborn," he added. "Let's make a country that we can be proud of today and one which our grandchildren can look back and thank us for years hence."

A motorcycle operated by Jennifer Smith, 19, of Islington, Ontario, was southbound when the rider failed to negotiate a curve and entered the north ditch.

The accident was investigated by provincial constable Ron Buchanan of the Minden detachment of the provincial police.

Damage was estimated at $550 in a two-vehicle accident October 17 at 3:40 p.m. on County Road 6.

Council want DREE for Haliburton

Members of Haliburton County council want the federal government to stop stalling and designate the county eligible again for Department of Regional and Economic Expansion (DREE) grants.

Councillors decided last Wednesday to ask Victoria-Haliburton MP Bill Scott to arrange a meeting between the council and DREE officials.

The decision was made after the council received a letter from Scott regarding his efforts at obtaining DREE funding.

"I want to assure you of my continuing efforts to have our area included under the DREE program," he told council in a letter from his Ottawa office. "I have over

A Bobcaygeon resident, Fred Reynolds, was elected president of the Victoria-Haliburton Federal Progressive Conservative Association last Saturday at its annual meeting in Lindsay.

He replaces Monty Robson of Fenelon Falls, who now will serve as past president of the association.

Jamie McQuarrie of Lindsay was elected first vice-president, while Phil Clark of Virginia was chosen second vice-president.

Directors selected were Catherine Robinson of Sutton, Ted Norris of Jackson Point, Allan Bagg of Eagle Lake, Steve Metro of Apsley, Dianne Pethick of Woodville and Marina McLennan of Fenelon Falls.

Ted Hill of Lindsay was re-elected to the post of secretary while Don Millage of Lindsay was again chosen to serve as treasurer.

Resident charged

A 28-year-old Wilberforce resident, William A. Bauman, has been charged by provincial police at the Minden detachment with theft under $200.

our request. I will, of course, keep you informed of developments when I have heard back from the department."

The primary objective of DREE is to encourage slow-growth regions of the country to realize their potential. Through the Regional Development Incentives Act, the department is able to provide incentives to industry and business to invest in these slow-growth areas and thus create improved opportunities for productive employment.

Scott told The Echo in an interview the eligibility of regions is usually based on the amount of unemployment in a particular area.

Grenville Martin, owner of Martin Lumber at Harcourt, was the last businessman in Haliburton County to receive DREE funds, he said. The final money was given to the company in the early 1970s, he explained.

Since that time, the county has not received any DREE funding, he added.

"You will see that Mont-real is now given special incentives and I certainly find it hard to understand how the government can justify giving DREE assistance to such urban ridings as Mount Royal, represented by The Prime Minister, and yet refuse it to more deserving constituencies such as our own," he said in his letter. "I think the implication goes without comment and doubtless many individuals will question this position as taken by the department."

Steam days are gone...

The Guild of Fine Arts begins an era

The rails are rusted from lack of use. Overgrown by vegetation, they remain silent. The building shows signs of aging, displaying broken windows, a weathered exterior and dusty, quiet interior.

The Canadian National

Railway station at Haliburton is a vivid reminder of the past when steam locomotives were the backbone of commerce and travel in Canada, especially Haliburton County.

A 100-year-old structure stands as a monument to a bygone era.

Gone is the sound of the steam whistle, the cry of the conductor yelling "All aboard" and sight of the smoke billowing from the stack of the locomotive.

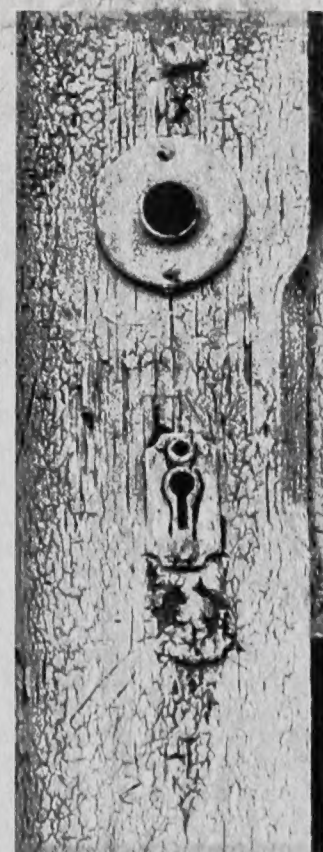

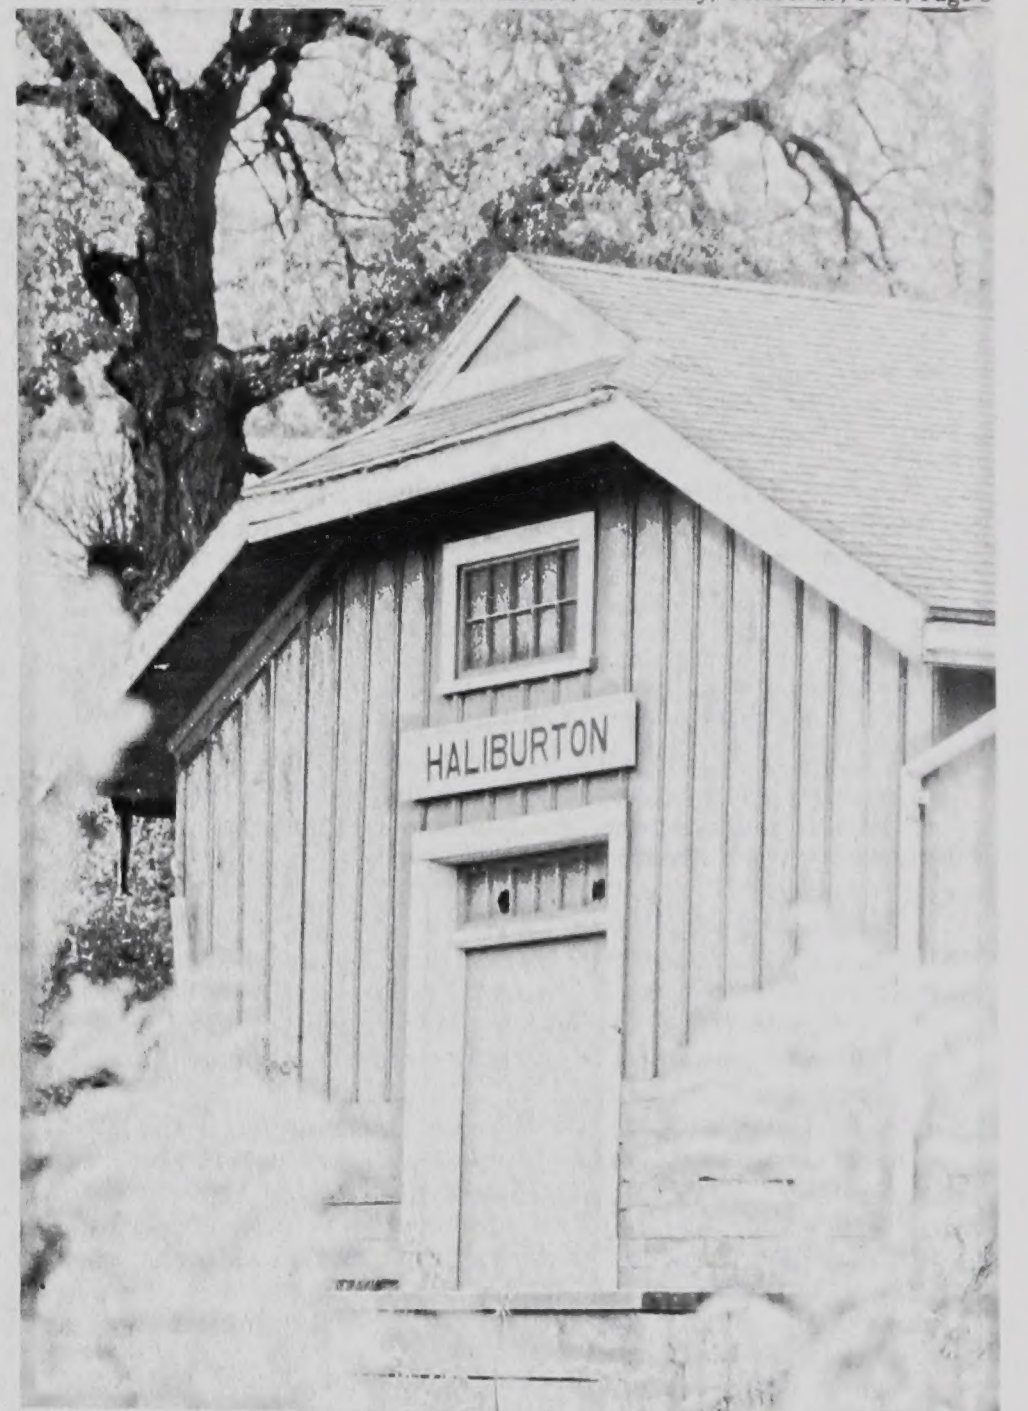

The station is a physical example of life when automobiles were a rarity, television was undiscovered and travel was very limited.

The building will be resurrected to take its place in the local history of the past century.

Although the trains do not travel to the village anymore, the spirit of the station will live on as a new home for the Guild of Fine arts.

DREE

The federal Department of Regional and Economic Expansion (DREE) should stop stalling and designate Haliburton County as an area eligible for grants.

DREE was created more than a decade ago to reduce the regional disparity and help relieve the economic problems of different areas of the country.

Haliburton County received its last DREE funds more than five years ago, yet it surely still qualifies as such an area because the sole basis of the economy is tourism.

With its unemployment running high in the winter months, DREE funding could open the door to attracting light industry into the county to provide a broader economic base and less dependence solely on tourism.

The primary objective of DREE is to encourage slow-growth regions of the country to realize their potential. Through the Regional Development Incentives Act, the department is able to provide incentives to industry and business to invest in slow-growth areas and thus create improved opportunities for productive employment.

DREE funds are being unfairly distributed throughout Canada when such urban ridings as Mount Royal, represented by Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, qualify and Haliburton County does not.

"DREE, however, has been applied on a selective basis and I, for one, have questioned the criteria used in selecting areas eligible for assistance," Victoria-Haliburton member of parliament Bill Scott revealed last Saturday at his nomination convention at Lindsay.

"Sometime ago I asked the minister responsible if he would consider extending the services of DREE to our area so that Victoria-Haliburton could also take advantage of a program designed to stimulate economic growth," explained the MP. "Regrettably, he has been putting me off and, to date, has refused to extend the boundaries. Chambers of commerce as well as county and municipal officials have supported me in my efforts and I trust that even yet the minister will see fit to give our area serious consideration."

DREE funding should be awarded on the basis of economic need rather than political affiliation.

Haliburton County needs DREE funding to stimulate growth by helping out the present business concerns in the county and attracting new industrial prospects into the area.

If the county is to realize its potential, DREE funding will have to be part of the economic boost required to help it move in that direction.

The federal department must place greater focus of its funding towards tourist areas such as Haliburton County to help relieve its economic difficulties now.

Patient welfare

Haliburton County council should reconsider its decision to retain a Haliburton physician to care for the patients at Hyland Crest Senior Citizens Home at Minden.

But council should only reconsider the decision from a patient welfare point of view, not for any political reasons.

The board of directors of the Minden branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society has raised some very important points in its argument for return of care of the patients to the Minden doctors.

"At present, there is a very long delay before a patient from the Hyland Crest Home can see the doctor in an emergency," stated society president James Burton, in a letter to warden Keith Tallman. "In winter, the journey to Haliburton through snow and ice will be more difficult."

The care of the patients should take first priority over loyalties to physicians from any particular area.

"The Minden doctors have offered an immediate 24-hour on-call service to deal with this type of emergency and are prepared to guarantee no delay," stated the society president.

If the welfare of the patients at the senior citizens home is better served by physicians located in the same community, council should reconsider the decision of its management committee.

Medical conditions such as coronaries, strokes and bleeding ulcers do require immediate medical attention.

The decision should only be reconsidered with the health of the patients in mind.

The council will have to consider whether it is wise for medical reasons to employ a Haliburton doctor, who must travel 15 miles, or to retain physicians with closer proximity to their patients.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

In reference to Mr. Pat Conaghan's letter of October 13, 1978, in your paper, regarding the current County of Haliburton Planning Strategy.

This is a sad example of uninformed fulminating.

To suggest that this planning strategy has been introduced with undue haste and lack of consideration is a gross distortion of the facts.

John McDermott, senior planner with Totten, Sims and Hubicki Associates Limited, has been conducting a series of studies and presentations regarding the county planning strategy. Following a number of meetings with the county planning committee under the chairmanship of Sinclair Nesbitt, a meeting for all members of the county and township councils was organized at the PineStone Inn on August 10, 1978. This meeting examined the subject in some detail with considerable discussion, similar meetings have been held in each township or group of townships since August.

Mr. Conaghan has not approached the Lutterworth council or any of its members since these meetings, for information regarding the subject of his letter. If Mr. Conaghan had wished to gain a clear understanding of the planning strategy, he could also have attended any of a series of public meetings from October 2 to 5, 1978. These public meetings were organized and conducted by Mr. McDermott at the offices of 12 of the township or township groups. These public meetings were advertised in the local press on September 20 and 27, 1978.

Mr. McDermott gave an extremely clear and concise description of the planning strategy with adequate time for any questions.

The attendance at both the Lutterworth and Anson, Hindon and Minden public meetings, in relation to their populations, was minimal to say the least, indicating either complete disinterest or confidence in the county planning committee.

To suggest that any township oppose this very logical and flexible planning strategy, into which a most detailed and comprehensive study of all aspects of the subject has been incorporated, would not only be an "ostrich-like", retrograde step, but extremely short sighted and ill considered.

Sincerely,
Glynne Lewis

To The Editor:

A service we don't use every day is often not recognized or appreciated to the extent it should be. There are many items in this category, but an outstanding one was brought to mind during my recent stay in our Haliburton Red Cross Hospital.

We are so fortunate to have this facility in our community and the wonderful team that operate, maintain and service it 24 hours every day of the year. The team I refer to are the doctors, nurses, administrators, technicians and those behind the scenes such as cooks, housekeepers, maintenance people, volunteer workers and the many that help indirectly. Their conscientious, combined efforts make our Red Cross hospital a tremendous asset!

We have to be among the most fortunate people in the world. Let's count our blessings and be thankful. To heck with moaning, grumbling, protesting, striking and complaining, there will always be room for improvement.

Let's hear it for Canada and, particularly, our hospital team.

Editor's Notebook by Gord Lavoie

I am suddenly realizing these past few weeks that my apartment is becoming overcrowded with creations of an exclusive artist. The creations decorate the dresser mirror, walls, tables, and almost everywhere a spot of open space exists.

The artist is my four-year-old daughter, April, who continues to produce a new creation for me every time she attends nursery school in Brockville.

I do not want to discourage her creative drive so I gracefully accept an armful of her latest creations when visiting home. Over the past eight weeks I have journeyed several times from Brockville with my suitcase bulging with paintings, drawings and other assorted goods.

The difficulty has finally confronted me. What do I do with my collection. Maybe I should consider opening an art gallery or wallpapering a new residence in early April.

As the creations keep pouring in, I always seem to manage to find any new location to hang them.

As time marches on, I obviously will have to consider storage as a means of avoiding the overflow.

In Brockville, my wife and I were able to solve the overflow by selecting the best examples of her work and putting them into a scrap book.

After a year and a bit of nursery school, the book is already bulging.

I guess I will be forced to make some hard and fast decisions in the near future about my daughter's creations.

I know when I return home again my daughter will have a new batch of goodies for me.

As her education progresses, I know the abundance will decrease to a manageable point.

But a new difficulty will face my wife and I. Our second daughter will be bringing home her assorted goodies for display and collection.

Being a parent presents a new challenge every day and makes life a very interesting place.

STAND UP* BE COUNTED

The municipal elections, because they have been scheduled a month earlier than normal, have caught most people off guard, including many potential candidates.

Nominations for the various local bodies, including public utility commissions and municipal councils closed Monday.

Judging by the talk in the area, the earlier date of the election, November 13 rather than December 11, has caused more complacency than was originally thought by the provincial government, who moved the date ahead to avoid the unpredictable weather of December.

But with the late harvest, the Plowing Match, and the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, there simply hasn't been any interest, which could prove very bad indeed for our local democratic system.

So, if you were thinking of running, or letting your name stand for public office, drop down to the town hall or municipal office and pick up a form, get your ten names, and you're off.

This is it, stand up and be counted.

KIDS NEED PUNISHMENT

It isn't hard to tell it is September and the kids are back at school. One just has to drive along Blake Street at a time when school is going in or letting out, and see the life and death dramas that are being played out in the streets adjacent to the town's elementary and secondary schools.

It is difficult to believe that children who are so alert and intelligent in the classroom can be such mindless misfits on the streets of town. Year after year, this newspaper has been preaching safety for school children who are walking or riding bicycles. Year after year, the local and provincial police have been teaching safety in the classroom. Year after year, teachers have been issuing reminders to children - ride single file, don't ride double; keep both hands on the handlebars; walk on the sidewalks, or if you must walk on the road, walk on the shoulder facing oncoming traffic; don't dart out from between parked cars; obey the signs. Year after year, parents have been reinforcing those lessons by constantly urging their children to be careful on the way to and from school.

Still motorists are terrorized daily by thoughtless children who give the impression they simply don't care for their own safety or the safety of others.

This past week, one youngster was nearly killed at an intersection when a motorist with the right of way had to hit the brakes hard to avoid collision with a child on a bicycle who just didn't stop at a stop sign. The motorist shut off his car, shaking with relief. He then got out and spoke to the child, asking him to be more careful in the future. The child couldn't imagine what all the excitement was about, but the motorist knew. He'd nearly snuffed out a life. The child proceeded merrily on his way completely unaware of the danger just passed.

Another time, a motorist was crowded off the road by a group of cyclists who were riding four and five abreast - filling not only their traffic lane but spilling over onto the lane of oncoming traffic. In order to avoid a collision with the children, the motorist pulled off to the side and let the children pass. Being justifiably annoyed, the motorist yelled at the children, "Get off the road." The children promptly replied, "Ah shut up."

There must be some way to control this sort of happening. Surely there is reason for the police to be constantly on patrol between 8:30 and 9 in the morning; between 12 and 1:15 at noon; and from 3:30 to 4 in the afternoon in the area of the schools. Maybe they could take down names and addresses, promising to get in touch with teachers and parents on a second offence; impounding a bicycle on the third offence.

Parents could then have some influence on their children. If parents are advised by police that their offspring were walking or riding in an unsafe manner, could they not deal with their children by cutting off special privileges or taking bicycles away as a form of punishment?

Teachers, too, could be part of the fight to stamp out rude, bothersome traffic from the schools. Once advised by police that certain children are traffic hazards on the road, all sorts of devious methods could be devised to convince students it is better to be safe than hauled up before the teacher.

In the meantime, motorists are urged to be on the watch for mindless daredevils who flirt with death and think it is great sport. They are also urged to keep their cool and quell the desire to get out and pound somebody's child to a pulp for being insolent and vulgar as well as unsafe and troublesome. Take an alternate route if you can and avoid the hassles. It may save a life.

A MODERN TOWN HALL

Mitchell council is hitting its stride towards the close of its mandate, not only with its spearheading of a downtown improvement drive, but with the recent announcement of a project to renovate the town hall. Considerable imagination has gone into the development of a plan which, when completed a few years down the road, will see Mitchell the owners of municipal offices that will be the envy of other towns.

The town hall remodelling won't come cheaply, as cost estimations at this point near $136,000. But when those figures are compared with the expense involved in supplying the town with any other modern centre, they pale into relative insignificance. Certainly, we could talk in the millions of dollars if any suggestion to build a whole new town hall was ever followed up.

Many community groups, including senior citizens, minor sports, clubs, scouts and brownies, as well as the St. John Ambulance and other organizations currently use the hall and in future, a redesigned building will be sure to attract even more functions.

Wisely, priority has been given to the completion of an enlarged police office and while controversy over location of police headquarters may continue for some time, the Police Association might well wait to see the full plan before it jumps to any sorry conclusions.

About this time of year, reporters for community newspapers are sniffing around the town hall, trying to drum up a hot story about the coming municipal elections.

It's about as rewarding as looking for diamonds in the Arctic. All they come up with are pompous clichés, evasions, and half-truths.

Almost invariably, the Mayor, unless he's been caught with his hand in the till, or been discovered in flagrante delicto in a motel room with somebody else's wife, is going to run again.

"Yes, I believe I owe it to the people of our fine town to carry out the many progressive programs inaugurated during my years in office."

Translation: I like having my name in the paper every week, and if those jackasses of councillors would stop arguing with me, we might be able to screw enough money out of the government to start building that new community centre, which will be called after me.

Reeve Dimlylit: "What we need in our fair town is leadership at the top, something we haven't been getting. Yes, I will probably be a candidate again for municipal office, but I do not yet know in what capacity."

Translation: If that turkey, the Mayor, has a heart attack, I'll go after his job. He gets the chain of office, the cocktail parties, the headlines. I want them.

Deputy - Reeve Dumly: "There seems to be a strong ground-swell, among the voters, for new blood at the top, a vibrant leadership that would make Pokenville the thriving community it could be. But I have not decided yet. Let the people speak."

Translation: If the Mayor makes a terrible boo-boo, and the Reeve succumbs to cirrhosis of the liver, which he's working hard at, I'll go for the top, if I can find two guys to nominate and second me.

Councillor Doaks: "Yes, Well, as the voters of Ward Four well know, I have been their ardent representative whenever their best interests were at heart, and I know they are behind me 100 per cent."

Translation: I voted against every improvement in town, unless it was in Ward Four, and I squeaked in the last time by four votes.

Councillor Blank: "Well, I just don't know whether I'll run again. The position takes a terrible toll of your time and energy. I'd like to spend more time with my family. But you do feel a sense of responsibility to keep Pokenville progressing."

Translation: Jeez, I only missed three committee meetings last month. Holy Moses, if I'm turfed out, I'll miss that $800 a year, and I'll have to stay home with Gladys and those rotten kids every night. Please, Lord, don't let Joe Glutz run against me. He'd wipe me out.

Councillor Klutz: "I honestly haven't decided yet. I have served the good people of Ward Two for twenty-eight years, unstintingly, regardless of race, creed or color, and I believe, with all due modesty, that I have served them well. Look at the new sewage line on 11th St. Remember the maples I had cut down to accommodate a fine new service on 8th St. And don't forget the modernization I brought to Ward Two: a barber shop, two pizza parlors, and a chicken palace. I stand on my record."

Translation: Some of those dang communists are still sore at me for cutting down those 25 maple trees. Some of them others is mad because they get pop cans and pizza plates all over their front lawns. If anybody runs against me, I'm dead. Otherwise, I'll be back on the band-wagon.

But we must avoid being cynical, mustn't we? Those municipal politicians are more to be pitied than scorned. If they fail to be elected, it's a serious blow to the ego. If they succeed, they are stuck with two years of mind-numbing meetings, and the constant obsequy of the public they serve.

Unlike their brethren in provincial and federal politics, they cannot put a certain distance between themselves and their masters, such as a secretary. They are apt to be pilloried in the local paper, belligerently confronted in a coffee shop, or phoned at two in the morning to settle a drunken argument. Such is the lot of the municipal politician.

Nor can we blame them too much for being shifty when asked whether or not they are going to stand for election. They have learned that shifty footwork, that sparring for advantage, that gouging and butting in the clinches, from their provincial and federal counterparts.

And they have, of course, that great master of the ringing phrase, the double talk, the double think, the swift change of course, Pierre Elliott himself: the man who was going to wrestle inflation to the ground; who abhorred price and wage controls, then clasped them to his bosom; who steered through the end of capital punishment, and now might, just might, hold a referendum on it, provided enough people for him in the next election which might, just might, be held next spring. Or next summer. Or next fall.

No, we can't blame our local politicians for issuing evasive or cowardly statements to the press. They've been too well trained from the top.

Government must give higher profile to tourism industry: Eakins

Speaking to the members of the Kingsway Kiwanis Club in Toronto last Monday, John Eakins, MLA for Victoria-Haliburton said that the government of Ontario must give a higher profile and status to Ontario's tourism industry.

He called for a division of responsibilities within the government to reflect this. Mr. Eakins said that Ontario must counteract a massive advertising campaign by the northern U.S. states to lure

Canadians to their country by offering the Canadian dollar at par with the U.S. dollar. "The Americans", he said, "are being most aggressive during their slower season and the government of Ontario is going to have to show some muscle and display leadership to recoup some of the badly needed tourism dollars."

The Victoria-Haliburton member said that the 10 per cent tax on meals over $6 is discriminatory. Why is it you can buy a fur coat and other commodities for 7 per cent and have to pay 10 per cent on meals? This tax should be no higher than other areas of taxation.

John Eakins said he favoured lowering the sales tax permanently below 7 per cent.

Speaking on small business, he said that he hoped Premier William Davis would honour the commitment of the late John Rhodes to bring his private member's bill on Small Business before a Legislative Committee this fall.

Report from Queens Park

by MPP John Eakins

The Niagara Escarpment is the result of some 300 million years of erosion of rock layers: its limestone cliffs and ridges curve through Ontario from Niagara Falls to Tobermory. Queenston Heights, the rocky hills at the Forks of the Credit and the cliffs of the Bruce Peninsula all form part of the Escarpment, which is well known for its cliffs and caves, forests and waterfalls - the home of rare rock ferns and orchids, of turkey vultures and eagles. Ontario Government brochures wax lyrical about the natural wonders of the Escarpment - "rock, forest, and wavewashed cliffs," "unspoiled beauty", "some of the most breath-taking scenery to be found anywhere in Ontario".

Some 10 years ago, planner Leonard Gertler, in a study prepared for the Provincial Government, predicted in detail how quickly the Escarpment area would be taken over by residential and industrial development if the Government did not take rapid and effective action to prevent the loss of escarpment land. Yet three years went by before the government imposed temporary controls and passed a Pits and Quarries Control Act (criticized as being too weak). Five years after the Gertler Report, the Government announced establishment of the Niagara Escarpment Commission, to be in charge of long-term planning. During the five-year interval, the Government spent some $7-million to buy 20,000 acres on the Escarpment; speculators had also been very active in the area.

The Commission Chairman has confirmed that many applications to build along the Escarpment were received after the Commission was established. More than 90 per cent of the applications were approved, albeit with objections from some Commission members.

There are three main issues which have to be taken into account by the Commission in attempting to carry out its work. (1) Over-all public good versus the rights of the individual landowner. (2) Different attitudes with respect to land restrictions and the use of the Escarpment. (3) The assumption by the Province of a land-use planning function which has traditionally been left to municipalities.

Last February, the Commission published its recommendations, which included: tougher quarrying regulations; possible eventual shutdown of quarries right in the Scarp zone; protective agricultural legislation for some farming areas; a scenic resource designation for 331,000 acres, with special development control policies; restrictions on housing development along the shore of Lake Ontario; further development of the Bruce Trail; and 754 kilometres (468 miles) of scenic drives along the Escarpment.

The Commission's recommendations triggered demonstrations and letter-writing campaigns. Conservationists supported the basic aims of the proposals, but felt they didn't go far enough. Landowners along the Escarpment called for the abolition of the Commission.

In May, the Provincial Government and the Commission, responding to considerable public pressure, announced that the Escarpment planning area would be reduced by 60 per cent. New boundaries will not, however, be decided until the end of this year.

The Niagara Escarpment Planning and Development Act expresses the intention of the Legislature that the Escarpment should be maintained "substantially as a continuous natural environment" and that only such development should be permitted as will be "compatible with that natural environment".

Team beats Lindsay

Redmen clinch second

With second place clinched in the Kawartha West high school football division, the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Redmen will be a tough squad in the finals.

The team beat I.E. Weldon Secondary School from Lindsay last Thursday in Haliburton by a score of 16 to 7 to guarantee them the position, and, says coach Gary Brohman, "the next game should set the tone for the final."

The game against Lindsay was played on a cold and rainy day, though this didn't seem to affect the player's efforts any, says Brohman. Lindsay had the wind in the first quarter and came up with the first touchdown of the game, when Haliburton fumbled the ball after a punt attempt on their own 20-yard line. The visitors called a pass play, and made it 6 to 0. With the complete convert, that margin increased by a point.

From that point on, however, Haliburton took the initiative and dominated the play. "If we had finished some of our plays, the score would have been higher," said Brohman.

The rally began when Lindsay's quarterback was tackled in his own end zone by a Haliburton player to decrease the margin 7 to 2. Several times throughout the first half, Haliburton had the chance to take the lead. Twice, the Haliburton squad fumbled the ball on Lindsay's one-yard line and a touchdown was called back, when a Haliburton player was charged with holding.

In the second half, Haliburton kicked off and held Lindsay at bay. The home-townners took control of the ball and marched it down the field for a gain of 50 yards. Fullback, Butch Manery, carried the ball in for the touchdown on a straight dive play from Lindsay's three-yard line. The conversion was incomplete.

Haliburton threatened again in the third quarter when deep in Lindsay's end zone, middle guard, Ed Roberts, tackled their fullback carrying the ball for the 2-point safety.

The fourth quarter saw Scott Arbuthnot grab a swing pass from Tim Davies and run the ball 45 yards for the touchdown. Converts weren't the order of the day for Haliburton, as they missed again on this play.

But the game ended with the score, Haliburton 16 and Lindsay 7.

Defensively, safety Kirk Potter, and left defensive halfback Steve Bishop, both played top games. Bishop intercepted the ball twice in the game and set Haliburton up for possible scoring plays.

Doug Mitchell shows a young hockey player the do's and don'ts of the sport at a hockey clinic sponsored by Haliburton Minor Hockey. The clinic will also be held at the Dysart arena tomorrow and Friday nights for all ages of players.

Along the Trails by Roy Bates

The chill that has crept into the autumn air assures us that winter is not far away. Already, we've seen snowflurries and ice formations on water puddles. A good cold snap could put snow on the ground. Are you and your snowmobile ready for it?

The best way to get your snowmobile ready is to haul it out of summer storage and take it for a check-up to a qualified service centre. This is not terribly expensive and it could very well head off serious trouble later. Of course, if you're a pretty good mechanic, you might do this work yourself, but be thorough about it. Remember, that's a fairly intricate piece of machinery, and it has been subjected to hot weather, cold weather, dry weather and wet weather, all the components of rust, corrosion, and condensation. Treat it properly now and it will not let you down later.

Getting yourself ready is another matter. There's more to preparing for snowmobiling than going to the hall closet for your suit and helmet. What about your club? Have you renewed your membership? Have you called the club president or trails chairman to offer your assistance? I am sure bridges need repairing, windfalls to clear away, and signs tacking up. A few hours of work now will return great satisfaction to you when you ride those trails later.

If you're not a club member, why not? You do ride club trails, don't you? Or, are you really sure where club trails begin and public trails leave off?

An Ontario Government study has shown that 30,022 miles of snowmobile trails now exist in the province. Of these, 222 miles are developed in provincial parks, (public), 7,500 miles by the Ministry of Natural Resources, (public), and 22,300 miles by snowmobile clubs, (private, or semi-private). So you don't ride very far before you roll onto a club-developed trail!

Let me tell you about a snowmobile club that has worked long and hard to provide your snowmobiling pleasure. It's called the Haliburton County Snowmobile Association, HCSEA for short, and has been around these parts since 1971.

Seven years ago, practically no trails existed in Haliburton County, specifically for snowmobiling. Several hundred miles of old logging road were overgrown with brush, trappers routes snaking amongst the trees and rocks to numerous beaver ponds existed, and, of course, just a few at first, got their heads together, saying, "We can do better than this. Let's brush out a proper trail system, let's mark it, and map it, to give ourselves a decent place to ride. And while we are at it, let's promote Haliburton as a winter playground for our economy can sure stand a shot in the arm!"

The club has now done all of those things. It now maintains approximately 500 kilometers of groomed dryland trails (off the slushy lakes) upon which the signing for your convenience is improving year by year. This year some new trails will be added. Smaller grooming devices will be utilized to smooth out feeder trails and portages so that you can get to the main trails easily. The club is currently putting together its fifth edition trail map.

Introducing the new FireSide* CARMOR

The new FireSide* CARMOR combines the enjoyment of watching a cozy fire with the increased efficiency of a downdraft stove. Handcrafted, brass plated doors and Vycor* high-temp glass makes this traditional looking fireplace a beautiful and functional addition.

The downdraft tubes bring pre-warmed air directly to the fire wood. This "blow torch" effect means you get more efficient and even burning. When you're ready to fire up your FireSide* CARMOR, just open the air regulators wide and you'll have a beautiful fire started within minutes! And it burns cleanly and almost completely too!

The exclusive UNIMAX ribbed 1/2" mild steel plate construction gives double the strength without doubling the weight! This unique feature (patent pending) allows for a rapid heat transfer which increases the overall efficiency. Your FireSide* CARMOR is so strong, we'll give you a 10 year written warranty against any defect in materials and workmanship.

Look into a new FireSide* CARMOR at your dealer's today. Its trim dimensions (29 x 33 x 23), traditional good-looks and go-anywhere features will make it a favourite for Canadian families all winter long.

A word about VYCOR*
Developed by Corning Glass Works primarily for industrial use, Vycor* keeps its cool, clear look under continuous temperatures of 900°C (1652°F). Yet it transfers heat faster than any other transparent material. In fact, the hotter it gets, the better it functions. That's another reason why you can expect nothing but the best from your FireSide* CARMOR!

ment, the HCSA has ever maintained an active publicity campaign. This column is only one small part of the overall effort. The club has been written up in numerous magazine articles both in Canada and the United States has received good coverage in television news programs, and its maps have been circulated in more than a hundred thousand copies. The most recent promotion success was the September show in Mississauga, Snowmobiles '79, when many hundreds of accommodations brochures from HCSA Commercial Members were handed out to just a few of the show's 69,000 visitors. It's unfortunate that only five businesses elected to participate for the demand for information on Haliburton far outstripped the supply.

If you are still pondering whether membership in the club is worth the fee charged, let me fill you in on some of the returns you may expect. The Family Membership Fee ($15, plus $5 for each additional machine) includes membership in the Ontario Federation of Snowmobile Clubs for all members of the family having a valid licence. This membership costs the club $2.50 and brings to you a helmet decal for each licensed member and the magazine Snowmobile Sports which is itself a $3.50 value. From the club you will receive a membership decal for each machine registered in your membership, informational newsletters to keep you informed of club happenings and projects, and the satisfaction of being part of a $40,000 trail improvement program.

That's right, Forty Thousand Dollars! That is the approximate amount of the HCSA's expenditures during the last year. Actually, it was a few thousands over that figure, amounting to just about $100 for each and every member family. Where did the club get that kind of money? From membership fees, (including commercial members who pay a higher rate) from special fund-raising events, and from Government grants.

It is a fact that available grants are scaled to the size of a club and to its demonstrated ability to carry out its projects. In this respect, the HCSA stands at the top in its class. It can do better only if it grows larger and gains more working members. Help it to do better by giving it your full support. When you do, you will be ready for the new season of snowmobiling.

Late News Flash!
Prentice Roads Limited has announced that it will loan the HCSA a new Alpine snowmobile for the '78-'79 grooming season. The machine will greatly relieve the workload on the club's two Bombis enabling them to concentrate more heavily on major routes. It is anticipated the Alpine will be stationed in the Donald area to work mainly the trails in the southern sector. This is just the latest in a long list of handsome contributions from Prentice Roads.

Haliburton figure skaters take to ice November 2

The 1978-79 figure skating season for the Haliburton Figure Skating Club will start Thursday, November 2.

Only 18 skaters have registered so far, but a club spokesman says more are expected to register during the first week of the skating season.

Registration fees for the coming season will be as follows:

other skaters, registration will cost $35. Family rates will be available upon request. The Canadian Figure Skating Association fee, which goes to Ottawa, is $3 a skater in addition to the club fee.

The money from the fees will entitle all juniors up to Badge 12 to instruction from the pro. The seniors must pay individually for all lessons received from the pro in addition to their registration fee.

The skating schedule for the club has been changed this season to facilitate the skaters better.

On Tuesdays, junior skaters and up to and including badge 12 can skate from 3:50 to 4:50 p.m. and 4:50 to 6:50 p.m. for seniors.

On Thursdays, juniors and all other skaters up to badge 12 can skate from 3:50 to 4:40 while seniors can skate from 4:50 to 7:50 p.m.

Bill Hayward, fitness and power skating coach for the Toronto Maple Leafs and the Minnesota North Stars, will be demonstrating at the clinic during the day. On ice instruction will begin at 1 p.m.

Let's Talk About...

A BUNCH OF FINKS

by Paul Robson, President and General Manager, B.T.C.

BILL CALLED BARRY A FINK and Barry just smiled proudly and said, "Thank you." You see, finks are what make our roof trusses strong and generally maintenance-free... both our 'B' boys in the building supplies section of Building Trades Centres know this and so 'fink' is a compliment.

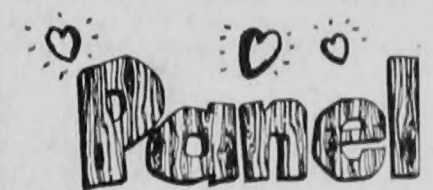

UNLESS YOU ARE PLANNING A DOG HOUSE, you would be wise to look into the advantages of using our roof trusses. The two types - cantilever and common - can be supplied to you in any specified span, pitch and overhang... delivered to your job-site or dock-side free within a large number of miles. If you're doing-it-yourself, think of the saving in backaches, blisters and time! If you're having it done, think of the saving in labour costs! But, most of all, think of the extra rugged roof you're going to have with guaranteed, gang nailed, engineered B.T.C. roof trusses. And because we DO seem to have a fair amount of snow in Muskoka, Parry Sound, Almaguin and Haliburton, you'll be getting Government approved maximum snow-loading protection, too: all our trusses are so designed to meet specific loading demands. Naturally, we'll be only too glad to give you an estimate... and here's a tip: order now and you'll get prompt delivery. Another tip: pay cash and you'll get a 5% discount - and that can sure add up on a roof job!

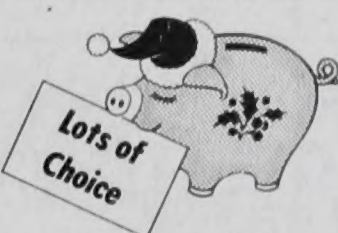

Sliding
25% Off!

SLIDE INTO B.T.C. for this side-slider saving! Dashwood 'Trimlite' model windows are being slid out of B.T.C. at 25% off manufacturer's suggested list prices. Glen Allen is very smug about his window bargains and I guess he has every right to be, but I told him, 'I don't do windows, I do panelling.' Of course, if you have need for windows, it would be wise to get in on the ground floor while the stock allows selection. Failing that, don't make holes in your walls until you know what size windows are available.

CALL ME
'PANEL PAUL'

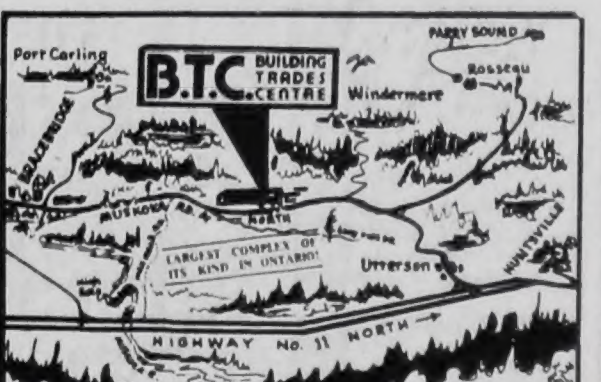

I'M GLAD I MENTIONED WALLS because my love-affair with B.T.C. wall panelling collection is well-known throughout the vast reaches of B.T.C. Plaza. Sometimes I just sit and gloat over those beautiful panels by Weldwood and Canfor (largest selection in Muskoka) and then I choose PANEL OF THE MONTH, LUCKY CONCORD ELM by Weldwood in all its random-grooved, satiny-finish plywood glory is my choice for October and tho' it breaks my heart to part with it, you may take it home for only $7.39 a 4'x8' panel (less 5% for cash, of course!) when you would normally pay $7.95. There, there, CONCORD ELM, it will all be over November first.

Rushing the Season - Gracefully.

MARG DAVIS WAS HUMMING 'Jingle Bells' this morning in our furniture store. A stern look from me and she switched to 'Spanish Eyes'. If there's one thing I don't go for it's rushing the Christmas season! But - 'Spanish Eyes'? "Cairtainly," she explained in her delightful Scottish voice, "I am unpacking one of our newest gift orders from Spain... and when I get that on the shelves, I'll be unpacking a gift order from Italy... and after that... Well, you should see our this-year's gift things! Canadian and imported pottery, glass, wicker, stainless steel, trays, candle holders, salad bowls... it's all here at B.T.C.'s satisfyingly low prices - and 5% off for cash. Almost as interesting as our panelling! (Sorry, CONCORD ELM.) I left Marg humming 'Arrividerci Roma'.

YOU'RE PROBABLY GLAD they don't make newspaper pages any deeper because this is all that'll fit. So, I'll say 'Arrividerci' from the largest complex of its kind in Ontario, B.T.C. Plaza... where we're always glad to say 'Aloha' to you!

Guild of Fine Arts News

By Carole McLean

On Friday October 20, the news media met at the Haliburton Canadian National station. They were given a special presentation encompassing all plans, to date, for its restoration. CKCO TV of Barrie, Susan Murdoch of CKLY, Lindsay along with our own Haliburton County Echo were represented. Special news releases were issued to all surrounding area newspapers. Present at the gathering were township council members, our own board of directors and a special public relations committee, made up of residents of the county.

Plans for the November 24 weekend are being finalized this week and will be made available to you as soon as possible.

The Visual and Performing Arts Group

"When you attempt to give substance to a dream, your feet tread uncharted roads, plan how you will." Veteran trail chasers, Sir Lancelot and Sir Galahad, could have warned the Haliburton School of Fine Arts volunteers that eventually there would be dragons in their path. However, at the onset, like King Arthur's knights, they were bolstered by intoxicating optimism and a sense of high purpose, that they were able to share with others. Never did they consider the possibility of failure. Perhaps, they succeeded because, not even an experience administrator like Jan Augustijn had the heart to point out the odds they faced. This quote from Nila Reynold's book "Dream of Excellence" describes the 1967 volunteers responsible for the formation of the School of Fine Arts and the evolution of the Guild of Fine Arts. It could also apply to the Visual and Performing Arts Group, who today have once again undertaken the slaying of dragons in order to further the purpose and objectives of the Guild of Fine Arts.

1. The promotion of fine arts and crafts, in the widest sense of the word, in the highlands of Haliburton.

2. The promotion of education, especially in fine arts and crafts, by promoting the School of Fine Arts and the highlands of Haliburton as a centre of fine arts and crafts for eastern Canada.

3. Offering programs for the community designed for the acquaintance and appreciation of creative endeavours.

4. To extend to all communities within the highlands of Haliburton the opportunity to enjoy first hand the endeavours of artists and craft people of Ontario. To act as a liaison between Wilberforce, West Guilford, Carnarvon, Minden and Gooderham. To contact their key people who would then be responsible for the care and transport of these shows on loan from the art world.

Thus the restoration of the CN station for its historical significance, as well as a depot for our counties cultural needs.

The Summer of '67 ... Cont'd

With a tentative agreement from Sir Sanford Fleming College, plans for the fall courses continued. Carole Finn and Karl Hanke agreed to take on the practical needs such as supplies, meals and evening entertainment. Carol Duncan reported on contact with the Lindsay Academy Theatre Group and proposed summer productions in Haliburton for 1968.

As a further attraction and potential drawing card for the tourists, the school, pledging their assistance and co-operation, invited the Haliburton

Art Group from Carnarvon to move their summer exhibition and sale to the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Mrs. Thilde Nevitt, a member of the Carnarvon Art Group, as well as an active weaver and president of the Artisans' Guild of Hamilton, provided further interest by prevailing upon the Hamilton Group to exhibit their work during the school's exhibition and sale. All through the initial stages of the school, contacts were made with all sorts of organizations and persons, exchanging information and promoting the highlands, through the cottage association and the news media. Support exceeded their wildest expectations as gifts of money and equipment poured in for the incoming fall courses.

Next week ... Teachers, the best Ontario had to offer.

Rug Hookers Group
The first meeting of the rug hookers was held October 16, at Hyland Crest in Minden. Of a possible 19 members, only eight were present, postponing any decisions, as to future plans, at this time. Although the interest in rug hooking has increased, it has proven difficult to obtain experienced teachers for the education of the seven new members. The Haliburton section, however, have now a new home. They are now meeting in the United Church in Haliburton. For more information call Stells Stinson at 457-2004, as to time and date.

The next meeting for all rug hookers will be October 30, at Hyland Crest in Minden from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Lunch is not provided.

County expected to approve plan

Haliburton County council is expected to approve its planning strategy at a special meeting to be conducted Thursday, November 2, at 7:30 p.m. at the council chambers, in Minden.

The strategy, which is being compiled by Toronto planners, Totten, Sims and Hubicki, will govern development in Haliburton County.

Barn owl now a 'barred' bird

Sometimes it requires 'owl-knowledge' to determine the difference between a barred and a barn owl.

'Owl - Knowledge' Art Smith of Haliburton informed The Echo last Friday that an owl which was involved in a collision with a provincial police constable from the Minden detachment October 13 was a barred owl, not a barn owl. The owl flew through the open window of a police cruiser driven by constable Solway while he was on routine patrol in the Minden area. The bird struck the constable and retreated to the rear seat.

Provincial police released the owl into the custody of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

News from Extendicare

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

Monday afternoon we had two moves. The first move was, Artists in the Wild, where artists go into the wild to paint any of the creatures in their true colours. Unless a creature is fully alive, the true colours do not exist. It is truly amazing how these artists using patience, slyness and cunning can get a natural pose even from a tiny bird, and, with amazing skill, reproduce a life-like painting. The second film showed Algonquin Park in the 1930s in the days of the Canadian National line from Parry Sound to Ottawa when private interests were allowed to organize boys and girls recreational camps under the supervision of skilled personnel. They were taught safety, how to swim, how to survive in the wild, how to start a fire using minimal resources and ultimately good sportsmanship. Many similar camps are in existence today, but not in the park.

It would appear to us that the message conveyed by the results of the bi-elections is that Canada wants no more bilingualism because it costs too much. An interesting side line was to find Cornerbrook, Newfoundland, going New Democratic Party. Cornerbrook is a great little city, which you should go to see for yourself sometime.

We had a little extra help at our bingo Tuesday, Mrs. Betty Wise, Mrs. Dorothy Iles and Mrs. Dorothy Davidson helped us. We missed having Miss Karen Henderson. It was a very nice afternoon session of bingo with everyone enjoying it.

Very few of the dahlias that we brought in, gave us flowers, but we did get quite a number of root bulbs, which if we can properly preserve them will give us some early bloom and the seeds will not be needed.

Ordinarily, when a housewife wants a cake, she goes ahead and makes it and needs no help, but here it is much different. A group of ladies pool their expertise. In due time, low and behold, a cake emerges. On Wednesday morning, a banana cake made by Mrs. Lila Austin, Mrs. Jean McKnight and Bernice Stewart emerged.

Three movies were shown again in the afternoon. The first was about the baluga whales that come to feed in eastern Quebec. It explained how they are caught in traps and further how a caught whale is placed in a submerged boat. The boat is baled out leaving the whale in an otherwise empty boat. The second showed nature in French Canada. These views of the wild are always good. It is intriguing how the cinematographer can get such remarkable close-ups. The third film was of the founding days of Montreal. It was almost exclusively of the Catholic Church and the varied, but continuous, rivalry of powers within the church and the French crown.

The birthday party to enjoy the banana cake was a nice Thursday affair. The celebrants were Mrs. Lila Simmonds, Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, Walter Fogg and Jack Kinnear. The pianist was Mrs. Betty Salvatori with help from Charles Plewman on harmonica and master of ceremonies was Mrs. Marilyn Stouffer, who added her splendid voice to ours making for an enjoyable session of singing. There were the four happy birthdays to be sung and finally came the cake, tea or juices. Next week, we may have a sing-song with an added attraction of a solo by Mrs. Stouffer to Mrs. Salvatori's playing of "Morning is breaking". At today's party, we had a solo by Mrs. Flora Walling, microphone singing and harmonica by Jake Gill. We owe our thanks to Mrs. Freda Stewart, Mrs. Betty Salvatori and Mrs. Marilyn Stouffer, who made it a success.

Pastor Glen Rosch of the Full Gospel Lighthouse of Haliburton was our spiritual leader for the Friday morning devotion period with his wife Julie as pianist. The theme

Gems of Truth

Tension with False Leaders

Nowhere in scripture is the wickedness of the human heart exposed as it is in the confrontation of false leaders with our Lord Jesus Christ. Jer. 17:9. Here was the Lord Jesus full of grace and truth, coming to His own people, having proven His identity by gracious and miraculous powers which He exercised freely in open array. Here also were the leaders who made great pretensions of religious understanding and devotion. Matt. 6:2,3,16, yet they would not listen to Him or receive Him as the one of whom the scriptures they so well knew spoke. Their religion was only an external form that covered an unregenerate and evil heart. 23:27 The leaders could deceive men, but the shining purity of truth as lived by the Lord Jesus, was a seething rebuke to all their spiritual barrenness and wickedness. Religious formality will never change the natural man and make him receptive to spiritual truth. 1 Cor. 2:14.

The opposition of truth as Jesus encountered by false teachers reveals one of Satan's methods of deceiving man. He does not always appear as a roaring lion in savage opposition. 1 Peter 5:8, more often he comes as an angel of light. 11 Cor. 11:14 From the very beginning of human history he has had as his tools false leaders in high places. Their religious pretensions gave them a certain immunity from suspicion. It was only the Spirit-filled prophet who could detect and expose their hypocrisy. Our safety from them today as then, lies in knowing the Lord Jesus Christ as a personal Saviour. John 10:3-5. Likewise saved ones are instructed to try the spirits whether they are of God. 1 John 4:1-3. The test by which they can be known is their acceptance or rejection of the great evangelical truths of the Holy Scriptures. The phrase, 'If it's new it is not true' certainly applies to our present day juggling of the plain word of God taken out of its context and made to mean anything that appeals to the whims of the old fallen Adamic nature of man. It is thus that there are all kinds of religious voices clamoring to the heard, and with the influx of Asian and European citizens there is a new voice heard and seen in the temples erected to practice their belief. True Christianity is challenged as never before in our land and we need to know truth as never before to withstand the pressure brought upon the rising generation by this situation.

The tension between Jesus Christ and the false leaders began already at His birth.

These leaders, being what they were would act the character. They had a superficial knowledge of the Old Testament scriptures, but they did not belong to the believing remnant of their day who were waiting for the consolation of Israel. Luke 2:25. When Herod the king summoned the religious leaders to tell him where Christ should be born, they were able to tell him exactly of the place, Matt. 2:1-6, however, they did not have interest enough to go and see that event when it took place. They should have been the first ones there, but head knowledge does not always move the heart. The birth was below their dignity, only a carpenter's son, born on the wrong side of the railroad tracks. Socially inferior! But there He was, on the divine side, the Lord of glory, on the human side, He was David's greater son, yet the religious leaders of Jesus day could not see Him through their eyes of prejudice and unbelief.

These sins are still committed today. They are numerous professors of religion who stickle about mere trifles and man-made doctrines and who utterly neglect the things of real spiritual importance. They are multitudes who will not accept the light and recited the story of Samuel, who was required by the Lord to choose a future king of Israel and anoint him; an individual who was acceptable to the Lord and of the family of Jesse. The one son, who qualified, was David, who was favoured by the Lord and whom he anointed. The after service assembly over tea or coffee and banana cake was well attended.

Three films were shown in the afternoon. The first, called "Goldwood", was rather ambiguous and difficult to describe. The next film was a south pole setting of men putting up might struggles on ice, snow and in extreme frost. It was difficult to grasp their objectives. The third film showed the various facets of blacksmithing, from shoeing horses to tiring a wooden wheel, to repairing a link in a chain. It was interesting.

At the evening meal, we were glad to welcome Duncan Bethune back with us after his stay in a Peterborough hospital. He says they treated him really well and he now feels much better for the trip.

We think it is about time we thanked The Echo and Recorder for providing us with the means of expressing our views. It is not every nursing home that enjoys such an outlet.

Capt. Doub Barry and other officers of the Haliburton Salvation Army stopped long enough Sunday afternoon to give us a sing-song of Sally Ann songs to which many of us joined in. This was unexpected, but welcome. Thanks Capt. Barry.

Norland Notebook

by Barbara Maunder

One of the loneliest people in town lately has been our post mistress, Mrs. Rotha Bryant, because of the postal strike. This week very little mail is coming through to be sorted. There is not much point in writing letters or buying stamps to mail because they can only be delivered to post offices in very close places such as Cobocok and Kirkfield. All the north mail, that is mailed in Norland, has to be sorted in Lindsay and then trucked out from there. The only reason that this column is appearing this week is because the Haliburton County Echo's representative picked it up. Once again our postal system has broken down and I just wonder how much longer we will sit back and not let our government know just how unhappy we are with the present postal service.

Mike, Lynda and Tanya Easton were guests at the Haliburton County Warden's banquet at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre in Wilberforce on Saturday, October 14. Lynda's cousin, Keith Tallman, deputy-reeve of Monmouth township, has just completed "a short but busy" year as warden of Haliburton County.

Municipal election time will soon be upon us again. At the time of writing this column (Friday, October 20) nominations will be closed. As of Monday, October 23, John Ridgway and Robert Commack have filed papers for position of reeve and Mike Riordan and Dave Graham for council. Eric Voutier has taken out nomination papers for deputy-reeve and Barry Scott and Bill Moss for council. Mike Easton is not planning to run as deputy-reeve this term. Advance poll for townships of Laxton, Digby and Longford is in Norland Community Hall on Saturday, November 4 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. and regular voting day is Monday, November 13 from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Poll 1 - Norland Community Hall and Poll 2 - Head Lake Town Hall. If you can't vote on November 13, be sure and cast your vote on Saturday, November 4 at the advance poll.

Last May, this area had a very successful spring festival of the arts. The best of the festival '78 will be on view from October 12 to November 4 in the Ethel Flavell Gallery in Lindsay Public Library. The hours are Monday to Saturday - 1 to 5 p.m. and Friday evening 7 to 9 p.m. Mrs. Betty Davey had a hand-tooled leather purse and Mrs. Anna Verkerk a hooked wall hanging chosen from the Norland Women's Institute display to be shown at this special showing.

On Wednesday, November 1 at 1:30 p.m. there will be a workshop in the Norland Women's Institute Hall to suggest and show ways and means of recycling garments, articles and materials. Mrs. Edith Sanders, a local crafts-woman and Mrs. Margaret Creelman, Fashion Consultant will be on hand to assist and offer ideas and suggestions. All interested persons are invited to attend this worthwhile program which could save you many dollars as well as being fun and interesting.

Our congratulations and best wishes to Earl and Doris Bartley, who will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary on Saturday, October 28. Everyone is invited to attend an open house at their home from 1 to 3 p.m.

Do you have your ticket(s) for the dance sponsored by the ladies auxiliary of the firemen on Saturday, October 28 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.? Misty River Ramblers will supply the music. The bar is licensed under L.C.B.O. and lunch will be served. Tickets are available from members at $4 a person and the number is limited. Last call for draw tickets at $5 each for the trip for two to the Bahamas or $650 cash. The winning ticket will be drawn at the dance, but without a ticket you can't win. These tickets can be purchased from Jean Boyce - 454-8017 or Mary Graham - 454-1117.

A little late with this year's Norland Bowling league scores because bowling started September 13, but I will try and have weekly scores from now on. As of October 18, standings are team of Lyle Jewell - 29 points, Trent Watson - 24 points, Kim Watson - 24 points, Nellie Chynoweth - 23 points, Don Boyce, 20 points, Barb Maunder 17 points, Betty Davey 16 points, and Lois McLean 15 points. Ladies high single, triple and average - Rotha Bryant - 233, 594, 186. Men's single, triple and average - Harry Smith - 303, 717, 202.

Firemen's hockey pool winner for October 14 was Nancy Greer.

At their regular bi-monthly meeting on Thursday, October 19, Cobocok Lions Club voted to spend up to $65,00 for an asphalt or concrete base for an outdoor rink in the new Gull River recreation park in Cobocok.

This should prove to be a very worthwhile project for the Lions to undertake because it will greatly assist the Gull River park in providing a good rink for skating, hockey, etc. Guest speaker at the meeting was District (A-16) Governor, Earl Pilkey of Claremont.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

Well, my friends time is marching on. The next column will be read by you in November, but before that happens, just don't forget a big night is coming up for the small folk. Next Tuesday evening, they will all be out in costume, so if you are driving beware of the goblins, ghosts and witches. I get a kick out of the costumes that come to the door, especially when I have to try and guess who they are.

The east coast has scored again. The Barry Connellys are on holiday in the Maritimes, along with the Brian Laurantayes and I sure hope the weather is nice for them.

When I look at the calendar, I wonder if it is wise to tell you what is going on? Wednesday afternoon is Women's Institute at the Orange Hall. Wednesday evening is meet the Candidate night at the Community Centre. Thursday evening is the combined meeting of the Guild of Fine Arts and Horticultural Society. Everyone is invited and a lady will be there to talk about "Christmas Arrangements and Decorations". Yes, it is getting near that time. Come on out and get some new ideas. Next Tuesday is for the children. There is skating every Wednesday evening and Sunday afternoon. There is a big dance up at the centre this weekend, at least I think there is.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bumister spent Saturday in the village. They were up from Mississauga at the Lazier home which has been rented to Mrs. McGuinness. We welcome her back to the village.

After reading the magazine section in the Toronto Star a week ago, I nearly cried to think of a young man's life being ruined because of a foolish mistake. How many young people are caught in the web of this era, and whose fault is it? There is so much given in the line of relaxers that most athletes feel they need these things to keep up with the pace. We all need to get back to the basics more, but it is the same for all of us.

Our ancestors didn't need this stuff and look how long most of them lived. We need to slow down and take a good look at ourselves. Sheila Austin and Nora Hogg have just arrived home from 10 days holiday in Jamaica. While waiting in line at Toronto airport, they noticed that there were some familiar faces also in the lineup. Upon a closer look they saw Sgt. and Mrs. Earl Bush, who are now in Prescott. When they all got a chance to have a chat it was discovered that all were going to the same place and staying at the same hotel. What a coincidence. They had some great times together and Earl and Shirley asked them to say hello to all their friends in this area. They haven't forgotten us just as we have not forgotten them. We all wish them the best and hope to see them soon.

Mrs. Cora Hewitt is now home from visiting her family in Toronto and a visit in Midland.

Have you seen the basket of groceries and Afghan that are on display in the window of Mae's Country Mart? These are items that the figure skating club are selling tickets on. The draw is on November 10 and if you have not bought your ticket yet, be sure and get one before then as they are well worth the price of one or more tickets, also it is for a good cause.

It will soon be election time in the area again. If you are like me, you will be getting tired of all this, but as we only have elections every two years, it is up to us to get out and find out what each candidate has to say then think it over and try and decide who will do the most for your municipality, but be sure and vote.

Recipe for the week: Low Cal. Onion Soup, (20 cal/serving); Slice thin 3 medium onions; 3 cups quick meat broth (4 beef bouillon cubes, 4 cups hot water), add the onion rings & one-eighth tsp. worcestershire sauce; cover and simmer about 30 minutes; if desired, sprinkle over each serving 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan or sharp Cheddar cheese; but remember that this will add 28 cal. to each serving.

No more headaches when you need those trophies for bowling, golf, curling, skating, or other sports; now you can order them right here in Minden through Mae's Country Mart. There are medals and ribbons as well.

Be sure and check the catalogue at the store. I saw it and was amazed at the number of things that can be gotten, and as fast as anywhere.

Did you get your tickets for the minor hockey dance yet on November 4. It is a masquerade so there should be some terrific costumes there.

Just remember that you have to fall back with your clocks this weekend. You know to me that is rather silly. In the spring, you spring ahead and in the fall, you fall back. Why can we not keep steady?

The brownies will be collecting for UNICEF. Please be generous with your pennies.

Adios and take care now.

Little Robert Reese is a patient in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay with a broken leg.

Gordon Timleck is home and even able to drive his car with a broken leg. Also home following surgery is Mrs. Diane Smith, who came home on the weekend. Other patients in hospital last week were Mrs. Gordon Travis ("Bernie") and Mr. Arn Richardson.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Rod Cameron, who celebrated their 62nd anniversary on the weekend. Celebrating anniversaries, (our 31st is this weekend) were yours truly, Mildred and Goldie McGinnis and Amy and Gordon Timleck; and 17 years Wednesday were Nellie and Joe Rucka.

Open house was held at the school last week and well attended by interested parents.

This little bit of wit might apply to our postal workers, now on strike and making life miserable for all of us. I wonder who would stand up and take notice if you and I wrote up a list of demands and expect the public to fully support us. As John F. Kennedy's speech said "Ask not what your country will do for you but what will you do for your country?" This little verse is entitled - "Who's Moaning?". Our Forefathers did without sugar until the 13th century, without coal fires until the 14th century, without buttered bread until the 15th century, without coffee, tea and soap until the 17th century and without pudding until the 18th century! They had no gas, matches, or electricity until the 19th century. In fact, it is only during the past relatively few years that we had aeroplanes, telephones, radios, cars, good roads and modern home appliances and T.V. The moral of this story is - "Now, what was it you were complaining about?" Perhaps those who are always wanting more money, for less work and also longer vacations, paid holidays, etc. should count their blessings! Least things revert back to 14th century hardships. It could occur with our energy crisis. The little story told above is from "Sharing Magazine" and now I've shared it.

The new lumber yard going up on the northerly approach to town is coming along nicely. It appears the old Canadian National Railway station is going to remain in the centre of the new lumber yard. I think it's great that one of older historic buildings is still left standing. Some of our older residents no doubt have told stories about the days when they waited on the old train to come into town to grandchildren and great grandchildren. How many little folks today have ever had a train ride, and been awakened in the early hours by a shrill train whistle? Not that many years ago, a train ride from Coboconk to Victoria Road, Lorneville, Blackwater of Lindsay. It was a real adventure.

Are you interested in your local township affairs? Do you have any ideas on how to improve services, save taxes, improve fire protection, encourage new industry or tourism, improve your streets sidewalks and drainage system? Then why not investigate who is in the elections. Ask some questions to the candidates, or if you aren't satisfied, then get in there and fight for a position in your council. I think we should all be concerned and really know what is happening to our tax dollars.

There are still plenty of robins about so I guess they must expect this beautiful weather to continue. Don't forget to renew your Echo while the current contest gives you a chance to earn some extra cash. Good luck!

Restoration on station begins immediately

Train station's history, fine arts guild will make up gallery

One hundred years ago next month, the village of Haliburton celebrated the arrival of its first train. Haliburton's century-old station will now be restored and adapted as a community arts centre, it was announced last Friday by the Haliburton Highlands Guild of Fine Arts.

The completion of the Victoria Railway in 1878 brought Haliburton to within a half day's journey of Toronto, and opened the way for the region's development as one of Ontario's leading cottage and recreation areas. Canadian National discontinued train service last year. The Municipality of Dysart et al purchased the station from CN for $5,000 and support the Guild's intention to develop the building as an arts centre.

A recently completed consultants' study recommends the adaptation of the station. Architect Keith Wagland, arts management consultant Robert Bailey, and conservation consultant Harold Kalmann noted in the study that Haliburton has gained wide recognition for its contributions to education in the arts and crafts. The Haliburton School of Fine Arts, which is associated with the Guild, was founded ten years ago and now enrolls over 500 students each year in its summer and fall programs. The Guild's annual exhibition and sale of crafts attracts artisans from across Canada, and was attended by over 4,000 people in 1978.

The Associated Consultants' study also pointed out some deficiencies in the arts in Haliburton, such as the lack of arts education in the schools and a need for facilities for exhibitions and educational programs. The study suggested that the adapted station could go a long way towards satisfying these needs.

Architect Wagland has completed preliminary designs for the station. They provide for a year-round exhibit space, a meeting room, lounge, and offices for the Guild. The study notes that the proposed design would make the Haliburton station at least equal to, if not better than, most other community galleries in Ontario. Cost estimates for the rehabilitation and adaptation are $75,000. A good part of this sum has already been received in the form of a Canada Works grant for $30,000. The balance will be shared by the Guild, the municipality, Wintario, and private donations. A fund-raising campaign will be ushered in by a re-enactment in November of the celebrations for the arrival of the first train. Work on the building will begin immediately.

The facility will be operated by the Guild. In approving the report, guild spokesperson Carole Finn noted that the location is ideal, adjacent to both downtown and a proposed new waterfront park. "The spaces in the station are remarkably suited to our needs," Finn remarked, "and we are eager to proceed."

Trent/Severn News

The running off of excess water and the setting of winter logs in many of our reservoir dams got underway on October 10, 1978.

Most lakes should be near their winter holding level by the end of October, thus ensuring that Lake Trout spawn is not exposed by falling water levels. The storage on October 10th was 50 per cent down only 1 per cent over the previous week.

The small storage loss has been caused by continuing rains, and the fact that water drawn off lakes on the upper Gull River Watershed is being stored on Twelve Mile and Horseshoe Lakes, to be used by the Minden Power Plant over the winter.

The Otonabee River flows are only slightly below average for October, measuring about 45 c.m.s., or 1600 c.f.s., for the past week.

Lake Simcoe-Couchiching has continued just 2 c.m. below the rule curve level of 218.79 m, with no recent changes in the discharge from the lake being made.

The Black River has run for the past week with flows around 5.5 c.m.s. (200 c.f.s.).

More than 100 enthusiastic sheep breeders attended the banquet and meeting at Manvers Township Community Sheep Council, from Quebec. He outlined some of the changes in the sheep industry in his province, which have helped to more than double the sheep population there during the past three years.

Plans were discussed for several activities for the coming year, including a Zone Sheep Conference in Lindsay on Tuesday, January 16 and the Sheep Focus at Markham on July 13, 14 and 15, 1979. Youth Day at "Royal".

This year, the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair will hold its 50th show. To mark this occasion, the Royal will start one day earlier than normal, on Thursday, November 9 and the first day has been designated as Youth Day.

Competitions for rural youth were an important part of the first Royal, which was held in Guelph in 1922. Since then youth events have been part of every fair.

Elstone family reunion held in September

In 1863, Richard and Amelia Elstone settled on land in Dysart Township on the west shore of Lake Kashiagawigamog where they raised a family of four children.

On Saturday September 30, 1978, many of their descendants met at the home of Harold and Frances Elstone to renew acquaintances of near and not so near relatives. Families travelled from St. Catharines, Hamilton, Burlington, Toronto, Stouffville, Newmarket, Uxbridge and Lakefield to join their relatives of the Haliburton area to celebrate the first reunion of the Elstone family. Some seventy people joined together for a buffet picnic lunch, being led in grace by Mrs. Rizpah Elstone. The afternoon was filled with games for both children and adults, which was enjoyed by all. Mr. Ron Tyler arrived with his plane to take all who wanted to go up for a ride, and see the beauty of the Haliburton Highlands in full fall colour. Late afternoon, the gathering travelled to Birch Point Lodge where they sat down to a lovely dinner led in grace by Norman Elstone. The evening was spent in social chat and dancing. Mrs. Rizpah Elstone, 92 years of age, was the oldest relative present. Danielle Rennick 2 years old was the youngest relative present. Mr. Don. W. Elstone from St. Catharines lived the farthest from Haliburton. On Sunday before leaving for their homes, they attended churches and fellowship gatherings of their choice, then said farewell to their relatives of the Highlands, everyone looking forward to next year's reunion.

WE BRING PEOPLE HOME

Home of the Week

The pleasingly rustic exterior of this three bedroom, no-basement home conceals a wide variety of convenience features unexpected in a compact, low-profile design. The weather-sheltered entrance opens into a compact foyer, which leads naturally into the sunken living room or the kitchen/dining room combination. The living room features a vaulted ceiling, brick-faced Heatilator fireplace and excellent natural light. The well-planned, U-shape kitchen separates from the dining room via snack bar counter, and from the large unfinished area to the rear via pocket door. This unfinished area could be later developed into a large family room or some combination of lounge-family room-solarium-workshop, etc. Access to the laundry room and vanity bath is via this area - convenient, yet away from the main living and entertaining area.

For those who prefer such support facilities to be located in the basement, this plan may be modified, at a slight additional charge, to include a full basement, with access stairs off the now-unfinished family room.

Upstairs are the three bedrooms, each with ample closet storage and good natural lighting. The master has a three-piece ensuite with shower, accessible via pocket door. The large main bath is positioned next to a 9 foot by 17 foot storage area which is situated immediately over the dining room, with access through the second bathroom closet.

An immensely practical design, ideally-suited to the narrow lot and offering a surprising number of convenience features and great flexibility for future development.

Plans for design No. 76-1260 may be obtained either by single set, at a cost of $70, for the first set and $10, for each additional set, or by the package.

A five-set plan package, including the first set, is economically priced at $100 and an eight-set package, also including the first set, is only $125.

Whichever method you choose, please include $4.00 for postage and handling, B.C. residents add 7 per cent sales tax.

Send for the current edition of Select Home Designs, Series #34, featuring imaginative decorating and home improvement ideas plus 360 quality home plans of every type. Available for $2.25 ($1.75 plus 50 cents postage and handling).

To order any of these items please send cheque or money order payable to the Home of the Week, C/O The Haliburton County Echo, 382 West Broadway, Vancouver, B.C. V5Y 1R2.

Costumes should be reflective

Hallowe'en safety begins with a "be seen costume," says the Ontario Association of Optometrists.

Darkness makes youngsters invisible to motorists but there is a way to add an edge of safety to purchased or made-at-home costumes, Dr. Gerald Ingle, President of the organization, says. That edge is retro-reflective material.

"I didn't see him in time" is the most common explanation given by drivers hitting pedestrians, particularly at night when a driver's view is limited to the length of the headlight beam. Children in dark clothing are the most susceptible to such accidents but even white clothing is only safely visible at speeds of up to 50 miles per hour.

"On the other hand," Dr. Ingle said, "Optometric studies have found that retro-reflective material is safely visible even at speeds of 70 and 80 miles per hour."

Retro-reflective material is available in either iron-on or sew on fabrics and tape, so youngsters can make up their own designs. "Just be certain they will be visible from front, back and sides," Dr. Ingle said.

The other side of Hallowe'en safety is to see safely. A poorly fitted mask, which can easily slip out of position, or one with small eye slits poses a potential danger because it can block a child's view of oncoming cars, objects in his path, a hole, a step or the curb.

Dr. Ingle goes on to say he favors using makeup as a disguise rather than masks. "With makeup, the child has a normal field of vision and is less likely to have an accident because of not seeing something ahead or to the side."

He cautioned that the makeup should be of the nonallergic type and should be applied carefully by an adult to avoid getting particles or applicators in a child's eye.

THE HALIBURTON COUNTY ECHO AND MINDEN RECORDER

A busy season ahead for LKTA directors

The Board of Directors for the Lake Kawagami Tourist Association have quite a busy agenda for the 1978 - 1979 season.

The association is sponsoring the trophies for a floor hockey tournament organized by senior elementary school teacher Dennis Baker and his committee. It will be held on the weekend of November 23.

This is a first for this tournament and hopefully will be an annual affair. There will be about eight teams of boys ranging in ages of 12 to 14 years. This tournament should be a welcome boost to the businesses in the area.

Working in conjunction with the Haliburton Hockey Association the dates of the annual Pee Wee and Atom hockey tournaments have been changed so as not to conflict with the big Atom hockey tournament in Peterborough, or the Annual Skyline Curling Bonspiel on January 19, 20, 21. The Pee Wee hockey tournament is scheduled for January 26, 27 and 28 and the Atom hockey tournament for February 9, 10, 11.

The association is looking forward to a good winter of cross-country ski and snowmobile activity this coming season. There was a big increase in business last year and we hope to top that this winter. Preparation for the clearing and grooming of the trails is already in progress.

The annual snowmobile rally and dance has been scheduled for Saturday February 3. It is hoped more of our local snowmobile enthusiasts will join in the fun and help to make it a good success.

The association is very concerned about the condition of the channel between Head Lake and Grass Lake in Haliburton. This channel has been growing progressively worse over the years and soon the boats will be prevented from passing through the channel due to the weed growth and debris that is cluttering up the passageway. Steps have been taken to contact the powers that be to try to remedy the situation.
